

NEW BOOK INFORMATION

Slavic linguistics / Syntax / Theoretical linguistics

Argument Realization in Baltic

Edited by Axel Holvoet and Nicole Nau

University of Warsaw & Vilnius University / Adam Mickiewicz University in Poznan & Vilnius University

The third volume in the VARGReB series explores different aspects of varying argument realization in Baltic. It presents original studies on differential marking of both core and non-core verbal arguments, on argument structures of nouns and the encoding of nominal arguments, as well as on constructions reflecting the expansion of argument structure through the addition of causative, resultative or applicative predications. The discussion of phenomena of argument realization and marking often touches on fundamental problems of syntax and the syntax-semantics interface, such as the putative locality of case assignment, event-structural factors determining case marking, the inheritance of argument structure across phrase types, or the status of arguments and adjuncts. The contributions to this volume use different approaches and frameworks to analyze a wealth of authentic data from contemporary Latvian and Lithuanian.

[Valency, Argument Realization and Grammatical Relations in Baltic, 3] 2016. vii, 560 pp.

HB 978 90 272 5911 0 EUR 110.00

E-BOOK 978 90 272 6753 5 EUR 110.00

“This high-quality volume builds directly on the success of the two previous volumes and provides us with more evidence why valency, argument realization and grammatical relations in Baltic merit a publication series of their own. The book offers lots of interesting actual data collected from corpora and gives the reader many fresh ideas on argument realization. The book should thus definitely be found on the bookshelf of any linguist interested in learning more about argument realization in general and in languages that have not gained that much attention in typological research thus far.”

Seppo Kittilä, University of Helsinki

Table of contents

Preface

Introduction

Axel Holvoet and Nicole Nau

Case marking and case alternations

Long-distance Genitive of Negation in Lithuanian

Peter M. Arkadiev

Argument marking in Baltic and Slavonic pain-verb constructions

Axel Holvoet

Variable argument realization in Lithuanian impersonals

James E. Lavine

The nominative case in Baltic in a typological perspective

Ilja A. Seržant

Differential Argument Marking with the Latvian debitive: A multifactorial analysis

Ilja A. Seržant and Jana Taperte

Contexts for the choice of genitive vs. instrumental in contemporary Lithuanian

Björn Wiemer and Vaiva Žeimantienė

The directive/locative alternation in Lithuanian and elsewhere

Natalia M. Zaika

Extending argument structure

Verbal prefixation and argument structure in Lithuanian

Kirill Kozhanov

Resultative secondary predicates in the Baltic languages

Benita Riaubienė

On periphrastic causative constructions in Lithuanian and Latvian

Jurgis Pakerys

Nominalizations and their argument structure

Argument realization in Latvian action nominal constructions: A corpus and text based investigation

Nicole Nau

Lithuanian nominalizations and the case marking of their arguments

Natalia M. Zaika

Language index

Name index

Subject index

JOHN BENJAMINS PUBLISHING COMPANY

www.benjamins.com